WASHINGTON NOTEB FOR SUMMER STYLES

Every Other City in the Union Can Look to Washington as the Best Example of How to Dress in Hot Weather-Biggest Summer Mr. Clifford A. Frazer of this city acted as best man for Mr. Guy. A breakfast followed at the home of the bride's parents. Resorts Capital's Only Rivals.

> Why is it that Washington girls are more attractive than the of any other town?

That is one of the first questions that most of the thousands visitors to the National Capital ask just as soon as they see the Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Smith Gordon F street promenade, but the women find the answer quickest. They see that not only are the Washington girls mightily attractive, but that in addition they have the most superb taste in selecting their clothes. "I'll bet she's a Washington girl," is a common compliment to attractively dressed girls all over the country.

There's an explanation, of course, for the acknowledged good taste which Washington girls display:

With the mild climate here most of the year, the early spring and the late fall period, light, summery things can be worn here for a longer time than in most cities, and Washington girls have devoted more thought and care to their summery dresses than do girls in other cities, who have to wear heavier and more formal dresses most of the

And there are so many things that work to the advantage of the feminine section of Washington. The city is just far south enough to have a mild winter season, with delightful spring and autumn periods, and just far north enough to be close to New York and keep Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Dorothy Ol-cott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will-iam J.
